DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-10, 28-50 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Arima et al. [5,281,151] in view of Branchevsky [6,252,761]; Arima as modified; hereinafter.

Arima et al. disclose a multilayer substrate for mounting a die [figure 1] comprising: a ceramic portion [2] comprising a plurality of lands on its first and second surface; an organic portion [3] comprising a plurality of conductors [7,8].

Branchevsky teaches of a ceramic substrate comprise an embedded capacitor with multiples terminals/electrodes to provide electrical connection [column 2, lines 54-59; column 3, line 13].

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to use the substrate design of Branchevsky with Arima et al. for the purpose of increasing capacitance.

Regarding claims 2, 4, 6, 32, 34 and 36, the method steps are corresponding to the obvious rejection of the structural apparatus.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 02-25-03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that there would have been no motivation to combine the teachings of Branchevsky with Arima et al. In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, Branchevsky shows a capacitor embedded in ceramic [column 2, lines 54-59]. Branchevsky teaches that the ceramic provides a superior dielectric for the embedded capacitor. Arima et al. teach the use of ceramic and organic materials used to form a multilayer circuit board. The organic material providing reduced resistance for the conductor paths. A skilled artisan would have been motivated to use both the capacitor embedded in the organic material layers of Branchevsky ceramic with the multilayer board design of Arima et al. to provide the benefits of superior component response with reduced signal transmission. Applicant further argues that examiner used high sight reasoning to form the combination of Branchevsky with Arima et al. In response to applicant's argument that the examiner's conclusion of obviousness is based upon improper hindsight reasoning, it must be recognized that any judgment on obviousness is in a sense necessarily a reconstruction based upon hindsight reasoning. But so long as it takes into account only knowledge which was within the level of ordinary skill at the time the claimed invention was made, and does not include knowledge gleaned only from the applicant's disclosure, such a reconstruction is proper. See In re McLaughlin, 443 F.2d 1392, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971).

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
